Updates on the CORE-CACREP Merger
Today’s Agenda

1. Review merger details

2. Discuss implications of merger

3. Future of merger & rehab counselors
1. Merger Details

CORE + CACREP = ... ?
Council on Rehabilitation Education (CORE)

- Accredited master’s level rehabilitation counselor education programs
- Established in the 1970’s
- Used empirically based standards for CRC’s

&

Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Academic Programs (CACREP)

- Accredits counselor education programs (master’s & doctoral)
- Established in 1981
- Uses standards developed by the Association for Counselor Education & Supervision (ACES)
2005: Merger proposition, would come together and create new organization-- Council for Accreditation of Counselor Education (CACE)

2007: irreconcilable differences lead to a failure to merge

2009 CACREP Standards allow for CORE accredited Rehabilitation Counseling programs to seek Clinical Mental Health Counseling (CMHC) accreditation

2013: CORE & CACREP enter into a corporate affiliation agreement for dual-accreditation of ClRC & CMHC programs

2015: CORE & CACREP sign a merger agreement; CACREP to carry out the mission of both organizations
Timeline of the merger

July 2015: Merger agreement is signed

October 2015: Doctoral RC accreditation

April 2016: Last call for programs to get dual accreditation

July 1, 2017: CORE is merged into CACREP

1. CORE no longer exists
2. CORE-accredited programs will be honored the lengths of their accreditation (now through CACREP)
   a. Graduates will be eligible for CRCC exam & NCE
3. Undergraduate programs will be included in a registry, but will not be accredited through CACREP
“The decision to merge CORE and CACREP was done out of respect for Rehabilitation Counseling and a desire to strengthen the counseling specialization by having CACREP accredit the programs because of the name recognition associated with CACREP accreditation”

CACREP-CORE FAQ, 2015
2. Merger Implications

Impact on practitioners, educators & consumers
Merger Implications

- A joint committee has been appointed to review Section 2: Counselor Professional Identity & are developing rationale for infusing disability concepts into CACREP curriculum
  - Intended to be included in the 2023 CACREP Standards
- Programs have/will be seeking CACREP accreditation for the first time, change in staff structure:
  - "For entry level programs, the academic unit must employ a minimum of three full-time core counselor education program faculty members who teach in the entry level program. Core counselor education program faculty may only be designated as core faculty at one institution." (CACREP Standards, Section 1.R, 2016)
  - core faculty–student ratio changed from 10:1 to 12:1
Merger Implications

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Current CRC’s</th>
<th>Future CRC’s</th>
<th>Members of MRA</th>
<th>Consumers/Clients</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Certification is alive and well, although is in decline</td>
<td>Advocacy for professionalisation in legislation is even more important now</td>
<td>No issues with currently certified practitioners; if you weren’t licensure eligible, that also will not change with the CACREP merger</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Merger Implications

Current CRC’s

Future CRC’s

- Will only have 60-credit hour program options
- Will be CRC exam and NCE eligible
- Potential for increase in licensure parity and portability
- May have more job opportunities at the doctoral level given the ability to work at any CACREP-accredited doctoral program

Members of MRA

Consumers/Clients
Members of MRA

RC and its roles and functions have been empirically established and upheld for decades.

An interruption of this, in conjunction with the depersonalization we were unable to stop in WIOA, leaves us vulnerable to having our roles taken over by more established, and unified, professions such as social work, nursing, or special education teachers.

Board development
Merger Implications

Current CRC’s

Future CRC’s

Members of MRA

Consumers/Clients

- Counselors with more training in clinical skills (60 credit training programs over 48 hours)
- Counselors with more training in disability, from a variety of backgrounds (infusion of disability into CACREP Standards)
Looking to the future

Impact on practitioners, educators & consumers
Looking to the future: Potential losses

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Loss of identity</th>
<th>Fear for personal survival</th>
<th>Lack of information</th>
<th>Departure of key leaders</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Existence as a specialization of the counseling profession vs. existing as a standalone profession</td>
<td>Faculty concerns over jobs, as well as potential loss of RSA funding for master’s students</td>
<td>Concerns over transparency, rumors, and misinformation without validation of facts.</td>
<td>Retirement-age leaders leaving rather than adapting. Discouraged leaders stepping down.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Looking to the future: Potential gains

Licensure Parity
CACREP accreditation increases likelihood of licensure parity for rehabilitation counselors across states

Increased awareness of rehabilitation counseling
Concerns over transparency, rumors, and misinformation without validation of facts.

Infusion of disability into CACREP curriculum
CRCs can lead the infusion of disability into other CACREP specialties, improving treatment for PWDs

Collaboration across specialties
Retirement-age leaders leaving rather than adapting. Discouraged leaders stepping down.
Leadership

When board opportunities open, we need representation from CRC’s!
“We also need a stronger voice in our world of human services. Accreditation bodies do not advocate for legislation but it is the beginning of understanding our common concerns, as well as beginning to act in concert. There is potential for strength in unity as we present our competencies to the outside world.”
Thanks!

questions?

You can find me at:
- levine31@msu.edu
- @a_llie
- amlevine.weebly.com
References & Resources

- CORE-CACREP FAQ, 2015
- CACREP/CORE Affiliation FAQ, 2017
- 2016 CACREP Standards: www.cacrep.org

SlidesCarnival icons are editable shapes.

This means that you can:
- Resize them without losing quality.
- Change line color, width and style.

Isn’t that nice? :)

Examples: